

Jordan Markuson CEO, Aqua Health Labs

Jordan Markuson is the founder and CEO of Aqua Health Labs, a revolutionary concept in dietary supplementation. A former internet advertising executive with extensive Chicago real estate holdings, a love for the outdoors inspired him to leverage his commercial expertise for the greater good. Exploring natural options to support recovery from a serious skiing injury and pain management for fibromyalgia led him to extensively research the science of essential fatty acids. Now, this independent entrepreneurial conservationist is a passionate advocate for environmentally sustainable healthy living practices.

Jordan holds a degree in Computer Information Systems from Indiana University Kelley School of Business. He spent the earlier part of his career building a multi-million dollar online advertising business, and continues to hold substantial domain assets. This expertise has made it possible for him to reach out to the wellness community about responsible alternatives, and to promote his goal of reducing the ecological impact of the fish oil supplement industry.

Jordan is a frequent content contributor to healthy living websites and publications, and is available for speaking engagements. Email jmarkuso@aquaehealthlabs.com to learn more.