The Pittsburgh "Best-in-Class" Sales Leaders Summit is the third annual exclusive executive conference hosted by Sandler Training by Peak Performance Management to bring top-producing organizations together. If you have received an invitation to attend this event, then you or your organization stand out as a top performer.

Join keynote speaker Glen Meakem, technology entrepreneur and talk show host to discuss how individuals, businesses, and our nation can be more successful.

Our objective for this event is to provide you with:

- Thought provoking content;
- A forum to share best practices; and
- An opportunity to leverage “mind share” of the most innovative and visionary thinkers in sales and management.

We look forward to your attendance, and hope that you will find it an exciting experience that will serve to stimulate and motivate you and your

Your time won't be all work and no play!

The night of the event we're hosting a mixer, which, in addition to good food and drinks, will allow you to network and socialize with other top performers in attendance.

We look forward to your attendance, and hope that you will find it an exciting experience that will serve to stimulate and motivate you and your organization for months after you leave.
