

Chinavasion: Official Distributor Of The Meizu MX4 Phone

Meizu have been keeping the details of their new Meizu MX4 phone under wraps however Chinavasion's PR manager Rose Li has confirmed that they will be "Teaming up with Meizu to become the sole worldwide distributor of the much anticipated MX4 4G smartphone."

"Chinavasion is always working hard to offer the best deals for the latest electronic gadgets and smart phones. We are proud to announce that our team has once again delivered on that promise and the Meizu MX4 smart phone will now be available from us on pre order" Rose Li added.

When asked how Chinavasion was able to secure this deal, Li said "Due to our dominant presence in the wholesale mobile market and reputation as a highly regarded smart phone supplier we were able to team up with Meizu to provide this flagship phone exclusively on our Chinavasion website."

"At Chinavasion we have an extensive range phones from this latest deal with Meizu will allow us to cement our reputation as the leading wholesale phone provider in China" Li said. "It will also allow us to reward our loyal customer base with yet another great offering from Chinese phone manufactures" Li added.

When asked what makes this phone so special, Li advised "This phone is unique from other main brand offerings as it is a combination of the latest in mobile technologies, such as 4G and a 20 megapixel rear camera that is at much lower than expected prices". With an MTK6595 Octa Core processor and 2GB of dual channel DDR3 RAM "This 5.4 Inch phone offers a performance comparable with the major named brands and will give consumers the same quality but at a much more competitive price" Li said.

With great performance from the Octa Core processor, a 20 Megapixel camera and spectacular resolutions from the FHD+ screen, Li said "We expect this much hyped phone will be a big hit with our international customers."

Such high specifications from a China Android phone are sure to shake up the high end mobile phone market and this is bound to get the attention of leading phone companies from around the world.

Li states "Chinese phone manufactures are keen to get a piece of the high end mobile phone market, by delivering phones like the MX4 they show that customers no longer have to pay over the odds for the best features and latest technology.” This is good news for consumers and will help drive development in the next generation of smart phones.

Li thinks that customers deserve to have the best technology at their fingertips and believes that “The best way to drive technological improvements is through competition.”
