GOERPCLOUD ENABLES USERS TO TEST DRIVE MICROSOFT DYNAMICS GP 2015

Businesses on the market for new Microsoft ERP software, and existing Dynamics GP customers are now able to test drive Microsoft Dynamics GP 2015 in the cloud through goERPcloud.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (January, 29 2015) Microsoft Dynamics GP 2015, the newest version of Dynamics GP, has been opened up for 30-day trials through goERPcloud, an on-demand provider Dynamics ERP demos in the cloud. Releasing the trial software allows users to spend time using the newest features and enhancement updates to Dynamics GP, announced goERPcloud, Thursday.

Microsoft Dynamics GP 2015 is the most recent release of Microsoft Dynamics GP and includes new functionality, enhancements to existing tools and improved mobility to enable anytime, anywhere business management.

 "We are committed to the success of our partners and customers, and quickly releasing the latest versions Dynamics ERP solutions for trial in the cloud as Microsoft makes them available is a key goal for goERPcloud," said Jeffrey DeMaria, goERPcloud Product Manager. "Keeping our demo environment current with Microsoft's updates not only allows businesses to experience new ERP systems in the cloud, it provides existing Dynamics ERP customers 30 day access to the latest software to help encourage upgrades."

The goERPcloud Microsoft Dynamics GP 2015 test-drive experience includes learning portals for users as well as interactive videos and informational material to help new users set up Dynamics GP for a more comprehensive experience when they test drive Microsoft Dynamics GP 2015 through goERPcloud.

Microsoft released Dynamics GP 2015 in December 2014. For a complete list of modules, features and capabilities in Dynamics GP, including the latest enhancements, download the Microsoft Dynamics GP 2015 Capabilities Guide.
