

machineLOGIC Acquires The Hiring Insiders, Launches Talent Services Division

New division offering talent acquisition and placement services will compliment existing Managed IT Services and provide clients with expanded options for technology engagements.

DENVER, CO – May 1, 2015 – machineLOGIC announced today that it has acquired The Hiring Insiders, an IT-focused talent services firm based in Castle Rock, CO.

Corey Eberly, former owner and principal of The Hiring Insiders, will lead the machineLOGIC Talent Services Division as Director of Talent Services, leveraging his 15 years of technical IT recruiting experience to offer clients the very best in talent acquisition and placement services.

“We’re very excited to be joining machineLOGIC. Our team will be able to deliver talent services to a much broader audience and take advantage of machineLOGIC’s expertise in managed services, technical operations, and online marketing,” said Corey Eberly.

As a result of the acquisition, machineLOGIC will enhance their successful managed services and cloud computing practices with talent services, which will provide clients the option to retain specialized staff to support complex cloud computing and advanced IT projects.

“We’re excited to bring a new approach to the MSP market. Adding talent services to our portfolio will increase the value and depth of engagement in our managed services and technical consulting projects,” said Daniel Johnson, President and Owner of machineLOGIC.

“Clients will be able to engage our team to deliver the managed cloud solutions they need to drive their business, plus they’ll have resources and options for long-term support and staffing as their technology environment evolves.”
