

SATURN SYSTEMS MAKES ANOTHER “BEST OF” LIST!

Duluth, Minnesota (June 15, 2015) – Software development company Saturn Systems is honored to be included in the Minneapolis Star Tribune’s list of 150 Best Companies to Work For, ranking #19 out of the 70 small companies named to the list.

This is the second “Best Places to Work” list that Saturn Systems has been named to in the last six months, also having been included in the 100 Best Places to Work by Minnesota Business Magazine earlier this year.

As a consulting company in the somewhat intense world of custom software development, the contentment of our staff and a healthy company culture is critical to maintaining high quality service and continuity for our clients. Saturn Systems is focused on ensuring that our employees feel it is a great place to work every day, inclusion on the Star Tribune’s list is a great encouragement for our staff.

“The appreciation, support to learn and grow, and the flexibility. These guys take great care of us.” Employee Survey Comment

You can find more information at Top Workplaces.

Saturn Systems is a software development company based in Duluth, MN that provides custom engineered solutions, staff augmentation and quality assurance services for companies across the U.S. Saturn Systems pioneered the alternative to offshore software development called Rural Outsourcing, offering domestic software engineers based in smaller towns at significantly reduced costs in comparison to metro area firms. Strong technical expertise, a stable workforce and lower costs make Saturn Systems the ideal outsourcing partner. Offshore to the North Shore!

Contact:

Saturn Systems, Inc.
Scott Risdal, Business Development
218.623.7221
srisdal@saturnsys.com
www.saturnsys.com