CBD is an abbreviation for cannabidiol, a prominent naturally occurring cannabinoid component found in cannabis that comprises up to 40% of the plant. Cannabidiol is a cannabinoid devoid of psychoactive effect. After THC (9-tetrahydrocannabinol), CBD is by far the most studied natural cannabinoid.

According to many researchers, CBD may be the single most important cannabinoid ever discovered. With a simple internet search, the positive benefits of CBD will be overwhelming. CBD is a natural constituent of hemp that has been shown to have positive health and therapeutic benefits, but does not cause any psychoactive effects.

Until recently, the public was unable to purchase CBD products due to marijuana prohibition. CBD-rich hemp provides a legal alternative to medical marijuana and allows the consumer to enjoy CBD without the risk of getting high or testing positive on standard drug test.
