

Innovative Underwriting Training Provider launches New Improved Platform

Toronto, ON, October 1, 2015 LOGIQ³ Corp. has been an expert provider of training and education to life underwriters and insurance advisors since 2007. The initial launch of its Underwriting E-Learning Solution earned much success as it quickly gained approval of CE accreditation by the Institute for Advanced Financial Education (I.A.F.E.) and the recent recognition by LOMA, an international trade association for insurance and financial services industry.

Today, LOGIQ³ is pleased to announce yet another breakthrough, the launch of LOGIQ³ Learning Management System v2.0, a new system set to revolutionize and improve on current training and continuing education and opportunities for underwriters and insurance professionals. The new system applies game design thinking to the learning context that really engages users. Users are able to track their own progress and improve in their studies. Courses, sessions and locations are easily manageable with the new system and users' LMS will be able to connect to other third party systems such as web conferencing tools, WordPress, HR systems and CRM's. New users will gain access to v2.0 effective October 1.

Current users will be able to request migration to the new and improved system as early as Oct 1 and migration will begin November 1 through to the end of 2015. Doing so as early as possible will benefit users in taking advantage of the offerings in the new system. The training program, emphasizes practical application with the use of real production type cases and post-training mentorship program.

The courses are suitable for individuals in Underwriting roles and those in Life Insurance Sales and Distribution roles, who are looking to improve their understanding of the underwriting process.

Carmela Tedesco, who leads underwriting training initiatives at LOGIQ³ says, "We are proud of the advancements we've made for education in underwriting. Our new education system takes into great consideration the insights of past graduates and we are excited to be offering the most innovative underwriting learning tool available online. As we continue to attract passion to the life insurance underwriting community, we welcome new and old to explore our new platform, its intuitive design, and student-centric orientation.”

In addition to being accredited by the institute of Advanced Financial Education in Canada, it is also recognized by Advocis Membership as well as CLU and CHS designations. Interested learners may purchase the training program through LOGIQ³ or through their existing LOMA account. The range in price for each module averages from $85 - $265 CDN.

For a limited time only, LOGIQ3 is offering a promotional discount of 15% that runs through November 30, 2015 to celebrate the launch of their new system. To purchase modules directly, please visit their e-store: <https://logiq3.myshopify.com/>
