K3 Enterprises Awarded First Task Order Win on INSCOM GISS

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. – K3 Enterprises, Inc. (K3) was awarded a task order for Security Resiliency and Insider Threat Program Support. This task order is awarded under the small business restricted suite of the INSCOM Global Intelligence Support Services Acquisition.

Security Resiliency and Insider Threat Program Support focuses on three main tasks. (1) Security Resiliency/Insider Threat Program Management, (2) Support to Army Threat Management Information Sharing (ATMIS) and Security Analysis Fusion Enterprise (SAFE) and (3) Security Professional Education Development (SPeD). “At K3, we believe in being innovative, thinking about the total problem, and providing an idea based on the best solution. K3 continuously strives to provide our customers quality products and access to the quality service they have come to expect from us,” says Dr. Brian Kent, President and CEO.

“K3 is excited to provide support in this growing and very crucial area for national security,” said Chief Executive Officer, Dr Brian Kent. The support includes program management, data management, analysis and process mapping, concept of operations development and other associated documentation for all program aspects. K3 will work with an integrated Government/Contractor team to perform expert analysis and development required to support the Army Deputy Chief of Staff G-2 in defining a holistic, comprehensive Army Security Resiliency and Insider Threat Program

INSCOM GISS: Looking to create a more responsive acquisitions process for Army intelligence, security and information operations requirements, the INSCOM Global Intelligence Support Services Acquisition was established as an integrated approach to providing support for Army intelligence missions, according to the original solicitation. Current support systems are derived from disparate intelligence community contracts, the Army said.
