St. Louis, Atlanta. March, 30, 2016 -- Payscape, a leader in financial technology (FinTech) and specializing in payment processing, opened its newest office in St. Louis Hills at the corner of Jameison and Chippewa (in the former Mark Anthony Insurance building). This location allows Payscape to expand their merchant services and provide localized support to clients in the Missouri area. Payscape, offers a variety of payments technology, including an alternative to Square, and the office will be led by District Sales Manager, Michael Lograsso. This expansion is part of Payscape's plan to hire 200 new employees nationwide.

"I am excited to join the Payscape family and bringing the Inc. 500 Fastest Growing Company to my hometown of St. Louis, and build a successful team in the area." said Lograsso. "Payscape's continual growth and entrepreneurial attitude are what provides them with the ability to obtain the greatest levels of success in this commoditized industry. Team members are constantly learning new technologies, solving new problems, partnering and integrating with new verticals, and, most of all, thinking differently."

Lograsso is the first District Sales Manager to expand Payscape's footprint this far West. He'll be responsible for growing a team of local talent with the goal of helping St. Louis businesses streamline their cash flow and improve their revenue potential. Michael is thrilled at the opportunity to showcase how Payscape's financial technology can be a game changer for the St. Louis small business community.

After receiving a degree from the University of Mississippi in business and hospitality, Lograsso returned to his native city and specialized in the transportation and relocation industry. When he isn't trying to save businesses time and money, he is traveling to Florida, playing golf or cheering on the St. Louis Cardinals.

"We are excited to open our office in St. Louis and are confident in Michael's ability to build a team that will help with Payscape's success." says Jeremy Wing, President and Co-Founder, Payscape. "Our continued growth and partnerships are a testament to our dedication to hiring and retaining the FinTech industry's most talented people and partners, and we are excited to provide career opportunities as part of our expansion into the St. Louis area."
