

CopperTree Analytics Wins Product of the Year

Poland's Intelligent Buildings Awards CopperTree's Kaizen Building Analytics Product of the Year

Surrey BC — CopperTree is proud to share with its customers, partners and friends that it has won Intelligent Building Magazine's Product of the Year in the category of Building Energy Management and Smart Metering. CopperTree's Kaizen building analytics solution helped improve the energy efficiency of several buildings in Warsaw. Inteligentny Budynek (Intelligent Building) Magazine used a public voting mechanism to determine the most popular product in each category.

Novel Approach to Energy Management

Andrzej Kołodyński, Managing Director of Delta Controls Sp z o.o, said, "Kaizen allowed us to rapidly set up a building and create reports that had real meaning to our customers. With Kaizen's Energy, we can quickly pinpoint areas of high energy consumption and we can compare like equipment against each other to determine the worst performers. These two capabilities allow us to focus our efforts in the areas that matter most, saving time and money for our customers while improving the building's energy efficiency."

About CopperTree
