

Chinavasion Launches Game-Changing 360 Degree Panoramic Cameras

While last year may have been all about virtual reality, 2016 is all about 360 degree video. These game changing 360 degree panoramic cameras are now available at Chinavasion, and make panoramic immersive video accessible to all.

Previously, wide angled panoramic photography and videos required some time consuming tricks from users, stitching individual pictures together with advanced editing software or using multiple cameras to get the desired effect.

Now, with this new range of 360 degree action cameras, like those available from Chinavasion, users can see and experience the world in a whole new light, as the single lens can record all the angles in one video stream.

Ms Rose Li, PR Manager at Chinavasion, said "This new range of extreme 360 degree cameras have an ultra wide lens that puts the user in the center of the action and records a full panoramic view. This means that in playback the viewer is engulfed by the video, as though they were really there."

Coming in a compact form these small lightweight action cameras are big on functions and ideal for capturing first person perspectives that bring a fully immersive experience of the world, with sweeping panoramic views.

Due to their great affordability and simplicity of use, these 360 degree, panoramic view cameras, with their ultra wide angle lenses, are taking the world by storm.

Having phone app controls consumers can see the live video feed and change viewing modes as well as capture points all from their smartphone. All this allows users to shoot video from any vantage points desired.

This wireless connectivity also allows users to the flexibility of seeing exactly what is being framing and captured, and means video can be upload and shared via a smartphone or tablet.

Chinavasion has a long history of bringing affordable cutting edge gadgets and electronics to the wider market through its wholesale ecommerce shop. "What was once the domain of photography professionals with a serious budget is now available for all, and will bring high quality immersive video at a price that mainstream consumers can actually afford." Says Ms. Rose Li.

Considering the fast adoption of virtual reality, the ability to record immersive video for consumption will be a big factor in the growth of these devices.

The wholesale electronics company expects demand for this new range of products to be a driving force in the action camera and Virtual reality headset market where tech savvy adventures are always seeking new ways to showcase talents.

With plenty of accessories the 360 degree cameras at Chinavasion come at wholesale prices with global express shipping and a 12 months warranty.