GET TO KNOW MONARCHFX

A New Collaborative Business Model for eCommerce Logistics.

Raleigh, NC - MonarchFx, a division of Tompkins International, has just released its newest video, Get To Know MonarchFx. Watch this creative, clever, animated video that explains what MonarchFx is, and the benefits it provides to retailers, brands, and consumers.

MonarchFx is the coming together of world class supply chain and logistics companies with world class sellers of products, to form a reinvented unichannel logistics ecosystem that is new, smart, and innovative. This unichannel ecosystem encompasses many things for fulfillment, including wholesale, retail, direct-to-consumer, eCommerce, store replenishment, cross dock, and even value-added services.

MonarchFx is your smarter logistics solution comprised of best-in-class supply chain companies focused on delivering cost effective, high service level fulfillment solutions to retailers and brands. MonarchFx offers a local automated fulfillment network and local/regional final delivery services at a competitive price, providing great customer service. MonarchFx has five locations planned for 2018 located in Southern California, Dallas, Atlanta, New Jersey, and Chicago, offering two-day delivery or better to 95% of U.S. consumers.

MonarchFx is an alternative with reliable services at a reasonable cost that protects brands and customer data. Competitors often expose and use sales data to identify customer preferences, using the data to create private label products, creating a brand competitor. Consumers expect more services and options, from buy online, pick up in store, to consumer and store fulfillment, order tracking, and return options. MonarchFx helps retailers and brands to focus on their own customer experience, while MonarchFx handles everything post click.

Tompkins Robotics is one of the technologies that enables MonarchFx. The robots are efficient, require little space, easily scalable, flexible, and requires little capital, startup time, and labor. The t-Sort robot technology uses free-moving, independent robots to replace conveyors and sortation systems.

The MonarchFx technology platform includes Tompkins Robotics, Tompkins Warehouse Execution System, The Connected Warehouse™ powered by Sensor Think, Softeon, DHL, NFI, and Kenco. It is the whole package and has best in class integrated systems capability.
