Bonnot Rolls Out New Website

Bonnot's website gives its customers a better glimpse into its robust capabilities

AKRON, OH: March 20, 2018 – Bonnot officially launched its new website (www.thebonnotco.com) to an emphatic applause from its customers, vendors, and employees. The new responsive website allows the public to access lots of technical information about extruder machines, bulk feeders, and custom cutting machines in a quick and easy fashion. The new website consists of more videos and pictures to help the public visualize what capabilities Bonnot can provide. When asked about what the website means to Bonnot, George W. Bain III (V.P. of Operations) replied “The new website will allow Bonnot to better help our customers solve problems. Bonnot has always prided itself on being solution oriented and willing to try anything. This has allowed us serve a diverse group of customers and applications over the decades. The industries we serve are always evolving, so our new website was built for our customers to help solve their ever changing needs.”

Along with the new website Bonnot has improved its presence on YouTube (www.youtube.com/thebonnotcompany) and social media (Facebook and LinkedIn). The public can get a glimpse into our R&D capabilities and what new technologies Bonnot has to offer. Bonnot is here to help. Technologies change over the years, but as a family-owned, multi-generational company you can be assured that we will be here to help and support all of our customers for many years to come.
