- ✔ At Your Own Pace
- ✔ Online at Home or Your Laptop
- ✔ Top Professors Nationwide

Receive Units Towards Your Degree

OnlineDegree.com has worked so participating Universities around the country will then consider the courses for credit, potentially finishing up to your entire freshman year of college. Free.

EARNING CREDITS TOWARDS A DEGREE

Our courses have earned a recommendation for credit from outside agencies like the National College Credit Recommendation Service (NCCRS) whose recommendations are considered by over 1400 accredited colleges and universities in the United States.

In addition, we work together with many partner universities who directly accept our courses for college credit, such as Ashworth College and Southern New Hampshire University. We're continually working with top professors to expand our educational offerings and to partner with the best institutions in the country.

ABOUT THE FOUNDER

Grant Aldrich, Founder & CEO

Grant founded OnlineDegree.com with a purpose-driven mission: make higher education more accessible and affordable for everyone. After graduating college with an overwhelming amount of debt, he was determined to change how students embark on their college education. Grant has spent his entire career working in startups with nearly 15 years of experience. He has been a board member and donor to a number of non-profits, an advisor to many publicly traded companies including Wiley Education, and a guest speaker at seminars and graduate school courses. He graduated with honors from University of California Irvine in Economics.

ANJIE'S STORY

Anjie recently became a new mom, and is currently serving in the military. She is seeking a bachelor's degree in Criminal Justice, but is limited on time and doesn't want to assume a ton of student debt to get there. Anjie enrolled at OnlineDegree.com to take free courses at her own pace that could earn college credits toward her eventual degree.

"I love taking courses from anywhere in the world on my own schedule. No cost,
and no pressure."

Anjie is an actual OnlineDegree.com student compensated to share her story.
