Vanguard Properties names Nina Dosanjh, a nationally recognized real estate influencer, as Director of Strategic Alliances and Technology

SAN FRANCISCO - Vanguard Properties, one of San Francisco's leading locally-owned real estate firms, today named Nina Dosanjh as Director of Strategic Alliances and Technology. The appointment is part of the firm's continued commitment to providing clients with the highest level of service possible.

"Nina joined our firm less than a year ago and, in that time, has shown an incredible commitment to our values and vision," said James Nunemacher, CEO of Vanguard Properties. "Our company takes a different approach with technology and marketing to support our agents and empower our clients. In this new position, Nina's in-depth knowledge and industry expertise will bring a tremendous edge to our firm."

In her new role, Dosanjh will be responsible for analyzing existing partnerships and identifying new alliances to benefit the brokerage, its agents, and the consumer. As a key member of the executive operations team, she will be tasked with researching and suggesting improvements to operational systems and technology products for the firm's more than 400 agents in San Francisco, Marin and Sonoma counties.

"The measure of any real estate firm is the quality of service it can provide to its clients and as technologies advance, so should our offerings," said Dosanjh. "I'm happy to be working with a company that embraces this vision and I look forward to packaging together a highly effective suite of technology products and operational efficiencies to support our agents and our clients."

Dosanjh has been a successful agent and strong leader within the real estate space for more than a decade. She is currently President-Elect and a member of the Executive Committee and Board of Directors for the San Francisco Association of REALTORS®, serves as a Director for the California Association of REALTORS®, and was recently appointed as Vice-Chair of the Federal Technology Policy Committee for the National Association of REALTORS®. She is a past President of the Women's Council of REALTORS® in San Francisco and served as the 2015 District Vice President for the Women's Council of REALTORS® of California. Dosanjh was named one of the Real Estate Influencers of 2017 by Inman, a coveted list of professionals who are shaping the industry, which is published by the leading industry news source.
