Stertil-Koni Welcomes FedEx Logistics Pro Jacqueline Cullison as Operations Specialist

For Immediate Release

STEVENSVILLE, MD, November 5, 2018 – Stertil-Koni, the leader in heavy duty vehicle lifts – notably bus lifts and truck lifts – has announced that Jacqueline (“Jackie”) Cullison has joined the company as Operations Specialist.

In her new position, Cullison will work closely with a broad range of audiences – chiefly the company’s extensive North American distributor network, sales personnel, engineers, Stertil-Koni manufacturing locations in the United States and Europe, as well as end-users. Her responsibilities include ordering heavy duty vehicle lifts, coordinating deliveries and securing transportation of the lifts to end-users across North America.

Cullison is also tasked with streamlining the inground lift ordering process while maintaining world-class communications between Stertil-Koni’s Stevensville, Maryland headquarters, its distributors, and the company’s manufacturing facilities.

In making today’s announcement, Stertil-Koni Director of Operations, Kevin Hymers noted, “Stertil-Koni is dedicated to delivering the highest level of customer service and is delighted to welcome Jackie to our team. She is a top logistics pro who shares our vision for advancing a customer-centric culture.”

Cullison has more than 14 years managing ground operations at FedEx, and an extensive knowledge of logistics, transportation and supply chain management. She is a graduate of the Robert H. Smith School of Business at the University of Maryland.

Cullison received numerous awards throughout her career including Administrative Service Manager of the Year and HR Service Manager of the Year, as well as the Bravo Zulu award at FedEx for “outstanding performance beyond normal job expectations.”
