

Waldrop Engineering Opens New Office in Fort Myers

A NEW SPACE FOR A GROWING COMPANY

Waldrop Engineering is proud to debut their new office in Downtown Fort Myers. Located in the heart of Downtown above the corner of First Street and Broadway, the new office is strategically placed for faster, more effective coordination on projects with Lee County, the City of Fort Myers, and the surrounding areas.

Following years of growth and success, the new office will be a collaborative space for clients, designers and other professionals to meet, discuss and share new project ideas.

"We love the work we do and are very excited about the places we create for our clients. This new platform gives use the ability to promote what we do, and why we stand out from our competition. We are grateful for these opportunities and want to make the most of them for our clients and our team," says Ryan Binkowski, Senior Vice President, COO.

James Ink, P.E. and Alexis Crespo AICP, LEED AP will helm the office, which opened in January of 2019.
