

Why Collector Concierge International

- Many of today's collections far exceed the value of the average family home.
- There are many less than reputable auction houses out there.
- Collector Concierge International will not deal with auction houses pulling scams.
- The customary auction houses should pay commissions or finder's fees, especially for larger collections. However, they do not pass these saved expenses along to the consignor representing themselves.
- A proper auction contract is a complex document that consignors and greatly benefits in having a knowledgeable representative agent that knows the game, looking out for their best interests at every turn and negotiating the best deal on their behalf!
- Wise reputable auction houses realize the benefits Collector Concierge International bring to their auctions.
- We do not assume your entire collection should be going to one auction house.
- We will look out for your collection being "Cherry Picked".
- Collector Concierge International brings a lot more to the table besides having the inside track and looking out for your best interest.
- We bring many major international buyers to the table that auction houses, on their own, would simply not have had.
- Not only accommodating major buyers that otherwise would not buy at auctions without our services. Collector Concierge International associates are often seen buying major portions at collectible auctions.
- Often, you get all Collector Concierge International's bundle of selling services and expertise at little or no extra cost to you; the auction houses often pay our fees.

Estate Planning Services

- Collector Concierge International services are especially helpful in an estate situation.

Collectibles Purchasing Services

- We have options and experience selling collections and high dollar items by means other than auctions.
- Many collectible auction houses retain 40% -50% of your collectibles total purchase cost price, especially if the seller does not have competent representation agency services such as those provided by Collector Concierge International.
- AuctionInspection.com (an affiliate company of Collector Concierge International) provides accurate inspection services primarily at collectibles auctions, but we also perform these inspections on high dollar items or private sales of collections.

Thinking of Selling or Need to Know Collectibles Market Value

- Category Expert Valuations Services at a fee for most collectibles.
