MonarchFx, a Tompkins International Company,
Hires an Expert in Product Development and Deployment
Chris Talley joins the MonarchFx Technology Development team.

Raleigh, NC - MonarchFx, a Tompkins International company, is proud to announce Chris Talley as Vice President of Product Development and Deployment. Talley will join our team to assist with the development, procurement, integration, implementation, enhancement, and maintenance of a suite of integrated, best-of-breed applications designed to deliver rapid value and a competitive advantage for MonarchFx sellers.

Talley joins MonarchFx with 20 years of supply chain management experience. He has a proven track record of process improvement and cost reduction, along with an in-depth knowledge of international supply chains including transportation and distribution operations. Prior to joining MonarchFx Talley was a Senior Director at Kuehne + Nagel Integrated Logistics. He holds a Master in Business Administration from North Carolina State University and a Bachelor of Science from the University of Tennessee. “I am happy to announce Chris will help continue to grow MonarchFx’s technology development team. His advanced technology skills and experience will not only help our sellers but their customers too,” stated Jim Tompkins, CEO, Tompkins International and MonarchFx.
