

Press Release

San Jose, CA — (PRWEB)— Illumeo Recognized as a 2019 "Most Promising Education Technology Solution Provider" by CIO Review Magazine.

Illumeo is proud to announce that it has been selected as one of CIO Review Magazine's "20 Most Promising Education Technology Solution Providers" for 2019.

As noted in the article when referring to training for accounting and corporate finance professionals, "much of the training delivery to these organizations is the same now as it has been for decades: live and in-person." This is a shame because skills training needs to be instantaneous, forever-reviewable, and inexpensive, the opposite of what one gets with live training.

"Audit, accounting and corporate finance are every bit as technical and complex as any other business function," said Illumeo founder, John Kogan. "They deserve to have a modern, online and on-demand training solution. We are truly honored to receive this award and acknowledgement of the work Illumeo is doing to help our users survive their day-to-day jobs and thrive in their careers, while helping companies build and retain the best accounting and finance workforce they can."

Illumeo's core user base of Audit, Accounting, Corporate Finance and related professionals are already highly trained and experienced. Their learning needs, therefore, are incredibly complex and varied.

As noted in the article, "Illumeo's uniquely focused, high quality and modern take on professional development for audit, accounting and corporate finance brings a truly 'one-stop-shop' for these professionals. These critical professionals formerly had to find training primarily on their own or with partial solutions, as there was no corporate LMS available with the massive content library, CPE, and compliance tracking needed to satisfy their particular professional knowledge and credit requirements. This makes Illumeo the only true 'end-to-end' solution for audit, accounting and corporate finance professionals."
