IndieFest International Film Series Launches August 22nd at ilCaffé

Intimate monthly events in the heart of Downtown Los Angeles

For Immediate Release:

July 10, 2019

Expanding their commitment to feel like an extension of your home, (with great coffee), and the neighborhood place to gather, ilCaffé has partnered with Film Festival Flix to launch monthly film nights at their coffee shop in the heart of Downtown Los Angeles.

The events offer attendees the chance to enjoy music and drinks while mingling with friends (and future friends), and to discover and enjoy unique films and documentaries from around the world in an intimate setting. The selections will be curated by Film Festival Flix pulling from its IndieFest International label.

“Films provide one of the best opportunities to meet people” shares Film Festival Flix CEO, Benjamin Oberman. “After a screening, you can approach anyone and start a conversation about the film you both watched”. The series will focus on shorter length films with edgy, international, and social impact, themes... leaving plenty of time for socializing and community building after the film.
