Eboni K. Williams To Host & Executive Produce 'REVOLT BLACK NEWS'

Williams plans to bring fresh analysis to headlines at critical time

New York, NY — Attorney and TV personality, Eboni K. Williams, has signed on to serve as Host and Executive Producer of 'REVOLT BLACK NEWS'. In a media alert on Tuesday, REVOLT announced Williams will permanently host 'REVOLT BLACK NEWS' twice weekly on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 9 p.m. EST/6 p.m. PST, starting on June 9, 2020. Williams is also a co-host on REVOLT's 'State of the Culture'.

"With everything going on in the news cycle right now, we need a space where Black culture and critical analysis combine to advance the conversation. This increased role at REVOLT will allow me to serve my community in a meaningful way at a historic time," said Eboni K. Williams.

Williams, a graduate of Loyola University New Orleans College of Law, worked as a public defender and private defense lawyer representing clients in criminal matters. From there, Williams launched a national television career analyzing and anchoring top stories on cable news.

Williams is also a regular guest expert on the nationally syndicated radio show 'The Breakfast Club', which simulcasts on REVOLT, and she was previously named by ESSENCE Magazine as one of its 'Woke 100'. Williams' undergraduate degree is in African-American studies from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

"My legal experience, newsroom experience, and understanding of the issues uniquely positions me for this role. I'm excited to help REVOLT elevate the dialogue and keep our audience educated and informed," said Williams.
