Digiscribe and Nvoicepay Announce a New Partnership

From receipt of invoice to payment, a new accounts payable solution to help companies ensure business continuity

Elmsford, New York – July 21, 2020 – Digiscribe and Nvoicepay have partnered together to offer a seamless accounts payable solution, from receipt of invoices through payment. Through this partnership, accounting departments can significantly reduce the time and effort it takes to process and pay invoices, whether they are working from home or in the office.

Digiscribe, a provider of business process outsourcing services, including digital mailroom services, document scanning and AP workflow automation software, offers a remote and automated accounts payable solution from receipt and indexing of invoices through distribution, approval, and processing. Once in any ERP, Nvoicepay's intelligence-driven payment automation solution transforms the way enterprises pay their suppliers, unlocking value in their payments process and achieving remarkable results through dynamic payment data management and a superior supplier experience.

This combined AP automation solution can help companies improve their vendor relationships, improve accuracy, and significantly decrease the time it takes for employees to process invoices so they can focus on other critical business processes.

"We are constantly searching for new ways to offer more seamless solutions for our clients," said Digiscribe President Mitch Taube, "This partnership not only helps our clients seeking business continuity solutions during the current pandemic, but also helps them become more efficient and competitive in a more challenging marketplace."

Josh Cyphers, President of Nvoicepay also said, "More than ever, businesses are turning to electronic payment solutions with remote capabilities, and Nvoicepay is eager to deliver. We look forward to our partnership with Digiscribe and are excited to offer a powerful solution to our mutual customers."
