Square 9 Announces New Solution, Return to Work Essentials, to Help Organizations Reopen Safely

Helping Businesses Reopen Their Workplace Safely and Securely Through a Touchless Screening Process

NEW HAVEN, CONN., July 23, 2020 - Square 9 Softworks®, a leading developer of award-winning enterprise content management solutions, has announced its release of Return to Work Essentials. This cloud-hosted solution helps facilitate the reopening process for organizations, ensuring they take the right measures to maintain a healthy and safe workplace.

Developed as a touchless solution to screen employees, customers, or visitors before entering the workplace, Return to Work Essentials supports organizations during the COVID-19 pandemic to help limit the spread of infection. Through a few simple steps, anyone entering a workplace will be screened to ensure their health status before gaining access to the facility.

"Now more than ever, many businesses need help returning to work and defining what that framework will look like," said Stephen Young, CEO of Square 9 Softworks. "Our goal was to create a solution that would not just facilitate our office reopening, but others as well. With Return to Work Essentials, we have created a solution that solves a critical need for businesses and provides them with the confidence to reopen," said Young.

Return to Work Essentials goes beyond a simple temperature reading by requiring health screening information from visitors, protecting the business with a liability waiver, and securely collecting and reporting on transmission tracing data in a HIPAA compliant cloud repository.

With the release of Return to Work Essentials, Square 9 remains committed to user feedback, demonstrating their continued commitment to customer innovation. For more information, please visit: <https://info.square-9.com/return-to-work-essentials-reopen>
