CosMedical Technologies Launches Medical-Grade Body Cream to Combat Environmental Assaults

—Restorative Body Conditioner Shields Vulnerable Skin From Blue Light and Pollution—

Davie, Florida (September 21, 2020)— CosMedical Technologies, a leading worldwide provider of private label skincare solutions, announced today the arrival of their new Restorative Body Conditioner. Now live on the company’s website, this cutting-edge antioxidant moisturizer pairs next-generation environmental defense with advanced multi-level hydration to dramatically soothe and rejuvenate hands, neck, chest, and body extremities.

Well-rounded protection is a vital part of any modern skincare regimen. While harmful UV radiation is still the foremost player in the extrinsic skin aging process, a growing body of dermatological research suggests that airborne pollutants and screen-emitted blue light may be partially responsible for the premature aging commonly attributed to UV light. These everyday factors have been shown to cause both visible and invisible skin damage, accelerating signs of aging such as dark spots, collagen loss, lines and wrinkles over time.

“Few skincare products on the market effectively combat environmental assaults. Even fewer are formulated for the body,” explains CosMedical Technologies founder and formulator, Dr. Ciraldo. “People tend to focus mainly on the face. Other frequently-exposed areas, like the hands and decollete, typically go unprotected, collecting a lifetime of damage... which makes them prime candidates for visible early aging signs.”

Restorative Body Conditioner joins CosMedical’s lineup of globally defensive skincare products to extend coverage to these vulnerable areas of the body. Ideal for all ages and skin types, this cream is formulated to not only shield skin from immediate exposure, but lessen pre-existing signs of environmental stress while fortifying skin against future attacks.

Featuring barrier-fortifying Red Algae, it delivers intense penetrating moisture from the surface down into the very deepest living layers of skin, fighting pollution-induced irritation, dehydration, and sagging. Revitalizing Winter Cherry extract counteracts visible light with potent free radical-neutralizing antioxidants to improve signs of discoloration and dark spots. Finally, naturally fragrant Blue Tansy oil provides dual skin-soothing and aromatherapeutic properties to noticeably calm skin and mind alike.

“This synergy of ingredients is incredible. They really work together to quench, firm, revolumize, illuminate, calm signs of redness, and renew your skin on every level. It’s a formula that visibly brings life back into your skin,” says Gina Ciraldo Stabile, Chief Executive Officer at CosMedical Technologies.

Restorative Body Conditioner will be available to order on September 21st. To make inquiries or place an order, existing customers should contact their designated CosMedical Technologies account executive. New accounts may contact the CosMedical Technologies sales team.
