CyberLancers Announces Partnership with Progress to Develop Sitefinity Websites

BRADENTON, Fla. – CyberLancers is pleased to announce they have partnered with Progress to help promote and develop websites using the popular digital experience platform – Progress® Sitefinity®. CyberLancers' team of expert developers have worked with the Sitefinity platform for over a decade and this partnership will allow CyberLancers to use their expert knowledge in helping other companies make the switch to Sitefinity.

Progress recently made platform enhancements delivering a technical preview of .NET Core and headless content management. This will allow organizations using Sitefinity to enhance their site performance as well as accelerate front-end content development.

"This is a game changer. .NET Core is one of the fastest web frameworks available today. Pairing that with headless will allow us to utilize the user-friendly backend that Sitefinity is known for and pair that with an extremely fast front-end," said Kevin Parker, Vice-President of Operations for CyberLancers.

Jeff Love, President of CyberLancers said, "We look forward to this partnership with Progress to help promote their Sitefinity platform. We have worked with a number of Sitefinity websites for the past decade and this partnership will allow us to help promote Sitefinity to a variety of customers."

"Progress is pleased to partner with CyberLancers as they continue to use the Sitefinity platform to help clients achieve and accelerate digital transformation," said Lynne Boudreau, Director of Partner Advocacy, Progress.

Progress Sitefinity is a cloud-enabled digital experience platform that empowers developers and marketers to leverage content management and data-driven insights to deliver, optimize and scale personalized omnichannel user experiences. With Sitefinity, organizations can build and manage innovative, engaging customer experiences with capabilities that streamline marketing and development tasks, simplify common technical challenges and enhance the customer journey.
