

Illumeo and Controllers Council Announce Partnership for Learning

SILICON VALLEY, CA & CHICAGO, IL (PRWEB) - Illumeo, a leader in professional development for accounting, finance and related professionals, and Controllers Council, offering specialized resources and programs for controllers and accounting organizations, announced today that they will be collaborating on a CPE webinar series open to both members of Controllers Council and Illumeo at no cost. In addition, the partners will bring Illumeo's advanced learning platform and unmatched on-demand accounting and finance course library to the members of the Controllers Council as yet another benefit that enhances their professional development.

The program will see Controllers Council and Illumeo working together to deliver a series of webinars on critical topics in accounting, accounting process, risk, controls, and more, all at no cost to those interested in learning and CPE. Controllers Council members will be gaining discounted access to the on-demand Illumeo platform in order to provide additional avenues for training and CPE.

"We are honored to partner with Illumeo for our continuing professional education, and joint webcast series," states Neil Brown, Controllers Council Executive Director. "Controllers Council members and subscribers can now access Illumeo's complete range of CPE and professional certifications at significant fee discounts."

"Controllers Council is an excellent professional organization for Controllers, accounting and corporate finance practitioners," said John Kogan, Founder and Chairman of Illumeo. "Their focus on enhancing Controllers and their organizations brings great value to their membership and we are proud to be aligning with them on both the webinar and Illumeo access programs."

At the end of the day, professional development is key to success for all accounting and finance professionals. Without it, they remain static, unable to advance careers as quickly as they would like, relegated purely to learning on the job. These days, that's not enough. With the joint webinar series and more readily available access to Illumeo, the expectation is that these programs will significantly enhance the value of membership to Controllers Council members, and in turn enhance their careers.
