Privacy fines are far more serious than security fines for every globally connected organization. These fines create a major pain point for the organization and the customers they serve.

Through the Zen Privacy as a Service offering, your organization can determine the practices and procedures needed to comply with various national and local mandates.

In addition, a privacy roadmap for the year enables the organization to navigate the myriad of complex privacy laws and fines.

Perhaps of greatest importance is the assurance that your organization and customers are protected.

While many organizations are on a forced march to digitization, privacy concerns are often lost in the transformation and new digital business models, exposing organizations to fines or worse.

ZenPrivata establishes your organizational privacy baseline and roadmap. Both safeguarding your organizational and customer data.

Using a new branch of mathematics and algorithms, we are able provide a predictive view on a variety of fines, business impact and legal outcomes, all bespoke to fit your organizations unique requirements.
