

BACKGROUND AND CHALLENGES

Morley Builders is owned by nearly 200 employees and has a total craftsman payroll that ranges from 300 to 600, depending on the number of self-performed field projects under construction.

They needed efficient incident management and a Covid-19 tracking system to make their workspace safe for their employees and guests and compliant with local and state reporting mandates.

One of the biggest challenges was to handle such variant types of employees, each with unique and different needs. For example, they need to differentiate amongst full-time employees, part-time employees, contractors, sub-contractors, temporary workers, union vs. non-union workers must be managed through a single platform.

OUR SOLUTION

To help Morley Builders create a safer workspace for their employees, we configured our Safety Cloud™ to assist them with employee's daily health screening, employees and guest check-in/out, as well as incident management solutions. California's employee and non-employee assessment forms were incorporated to automate manually intensive processes of capturing records per the state mandates, instantly and painlessly meeting the evolving guidelines around COVID-19 and other OSHA regulations.

BENEFITS

- Our incident management solution allows Morley builders to document incidents on a single platform. The system is designed to make a consistent process in incident management reporting, and it makes it extremely easy to share data quickly.
- Employees can report data anytime from anywhere, and the system immediately notifies administrators.
- Check-in/out data analysis allows contact tracing to prevent further spread of the Covid-19. All employees and visiting guests can be identified, listed, and followed up using this feature. It further allows the organization to quickly get information on infected, quarantined, or exposed employees to Covid-19.
- Using our daily health screening feature, Morley Builders can assess and monitor the current health status of all the employees and guests from all project sites – all in a single platform.
- Using our special forms and assessments that were specifically configured in the system for Morley Builders, they are able to comply with the state mandates and regulations.

The integrated VaxTrax™ module is helping Morley Builders to easily communicate, promote, and incentivize vaccination and testing programs.
