Branch started The Ever Forward Club in 2004 to provide support for African American and Latino males who were not achieving their potential. Since then, Ever Forward has helped all of its more than 150 members graduate from high school, and 93 percent of them have gone on to attend two- or four-year colleges, military, or trade school.

Branch's newest endeavors include a variety of projects, including his card game, EFC The Adventure. This game is a tool that can be used in schools as well as at home with family and friends to build deep and meaningful connections while having fun.
