Oct 11 (1-2pm): Leveraging Commander's Intent for Success in Safety

Description: How clearly have you communicated your intentions for safety? Does your team know why safety is important, not only the business but also to you personally? Knowing the only constant in business is change, do they know what to do to reach or accomplish the safety objective when conditions or plans do not work out as conceived? Commander's intent (CI) is a military method that explains what must be accomplished and why. It also clearly defines what success of the mission looks like. Explore the five areas to focus on to leverage CI in your efforts to achieve excellence in safety performance and culture in the workplace.

Oct 13 (10-11am): A Tolerance for Failure

Description: If you accept any level of failure in safety performance as inevitable, you will always have that level of failure or a higher one. Most organizational leaders don't openly accept a level of failure in their safety efforts, but they often do, or fail to do, the things that ensure excellent performance. Learn what the most common errors leaders make that lead to substandard safety performance and lack-luster lagging indicators.

Oct 14 (8am-4:30pm): Building Your Bridge - From Compliance to Safety Excellence

Description: With talk about moving from a have-to to a want-to culture, from compliance to culture, or from good to great, it is much more productive when there are visual models that allow leaders to identify precisely where they are and where they are trying to go, and what to focus on to get there. Since 2008, the Bridge to Safety Excellence model, has been a visual representation thousands of organizations have leveraged to convey the precise elements to be addressed, to close the gap between compliance and culture, and discover where they are on the path to sustainable excellence. Explore where you and your organization are within this model, and learn how to address each component, step by step.
