Clint Slusher
Chief Financial Officer

- Former Sprint Executive
- Operating CFO for multiple Sprint Businesses
- Senior Sales and Channel Operations Executive

Clint Slusher is the Chief Financial Officer at Mercury Broadband. Clint brings a wealth of telecommunications industry knowledge and experience to the company having served in several financial and operating senior leadership roles for Sprint. He has served as the Operating CFO for several Sprint businesses, most recently Sprint Business. In addition to supporting the financial operations of the Enterprise, Small and Medium Business (SMB), Wholesale, Wireline and IoT sub-segments, he also led all Special Pricing and Contracting for business customers and served as an executive lead in support of the Sprint Transformation initiative.

Previously, he led strategy and sales operations for the retail, indirect and B2B channels. In this role he led all distribution channel programs including the design and implementation of the Sprint Promoter Score program, the Go-To-Market function and spearheaded several distribution expansion initiatives. He designed and implemented enhanced performance management platforms along with retail and indirect channel profitability frameworks driving improved channel performance.

His early executive roles at Sprint include Business Financial Reporting and Operations Analysis, Wireline Revenue and Cost Accounting, West Region Operating CFO, General Business Operating CFO along with several key roles supporting the development and roll-out of Sprint PCS.

Clint received a Master's Degree in Business Administration from University of Missouri, Kansas City, and a Bachelor's Degree in Economics from the University of Missouri, Columbia. In addition, he completed the Duke Executive Leadership Program.

In his new role, Clint leads the finance, accounting and analysis teams at Mercury Broadband supporting business expansion efforts and manages the interface with external investors and partners. He and his wife Heather reside in Leawood, Kansas.
