

CPAmerica, Inc. launches staff training pilot program, in partnership with the AICPA

Gainesville, Fla. (February 28, 2023) – Starting this June, CPAmerica, Inc. will rollout their new staff training pilot program, in partnership with the Association of International Certified Professional Accountants (AICPA). These professional development sessions will take place at the AICPA corporate headquarters in Durham, N.C.

This in-person staff training program has been created exclusively for CPAmerica members, and includes sessions focused on tax and audit. The Tax Essentials training, Level II will be held June 27-30. The Audit Essentials training, Level III will be held August 28-29 and Level IV will be held August 30-31.

“The AICPA is excited to be hosting CPAmerica’s staff training for both tax and audit this upcoming year in our Durham, N.C. office,” said Tina Sanford, PMP, AICPA senior manager of partner & client management. “Bringing back face-to-face learning has so many advantages, but to also discuss challenges and successes with other members is why this is important to the association.”

Technical training is abundant, but having the ability to train at the AICPA corporate headquarters, alongside fellow CPAmerica members, is an unmatched benefit and maximizes the training investment made by member firms.

“We are ecstatic to be partnering with the AICPA to offer these highly sought-after staff training sessions,” said CPAmerica president & CEO Grace Horvath. “Through surveys and conversations with members, it became clear that staff training would be a necessary expansion for 2023. We are pleased to be working with the AICPA to bring this essential training to our members.”

Each of the trainings in this pilot program allow for fifty-five attendees. CPAmerica intends to expand next year’s offerings based on member support and participation.
