

5 Ways To Improve Leadership Skills for New Managers

IvyBay Consulting LLC

www.IvyBay.com

888-222-3333

The 8-part "New Manager Survival Training"™ covers these and more!

Benefits include:

- Understand workflow breakdowns before they impact performance for new managers
- Reduce turnover on teams
- Fast-track productivity for new managers
- Improve employee satisfaction

Learn to Quickly Surface Performance and Workflow Logjams

Having a system to quickly see breakdowns and areas where some optimization could relieve pressure on workflows.

Develop the RIGHT Social Skills

Leaders are often expected to be charismatic and persuasive speakers, but emotional intelligence and knowing how to motivate and mobilize teams are more critical to success.

Keep an Eye on Your Emotions

Keeping a steady position during crisis and change is crucial to success. Put the tools in place that can quickly neutralize and deescalate tense situations.

Know What People Are Thinking

Knowing what people are thinking when it comes time for meetings lets everyone express their opinion about important matters and prioritize topics. Having the skills to orchestrate that level of communication is key.

Manage Conflict Well

Managing conflict well is an essential skill that can help you resolve matters to positive outcomes for all involved. This helps retain talent and create loyalty within the team.

<https://ivybay.com/>